THE HONG KONG ART CLUB

Very little to report this time. It seems to have been an unexciting week, or is it that I've had an attack of laziness? But there is one thing I must write about, and that is the Hongkong Art Club's Exhibition at the Gloucester Building. What an astonishing number of talented people there are in the Colony! And why do they so hide their lights under a bushel that one only hears about them once in a year? If my sketching abilities could equal Miss Whitham's, my photographic attempts rival Mr. Grenham's, or my draughtsmanship come up to Mr. Hunt's, all Hongkong would hear about it. As it is my only talent is a certain facility with the typewriter—and none can say I don't display that as conspicuously as possible! (Though it is possible my Editor has no high opinion of it!)

EXCEPTIONAL ENTRIES

To get back, though, to the Exhibition. On each catalogue was a voting slip on which we were asked to record our choice of the best item in the show. Without hesitation I entered No. 265, Dr. Newton's beautiful bronze statuette. This was not only delightful to the untutored eye, but a doctor friend with me gave it the highest praise he could bestow when he said it was anatomically perfect. (How some even of the most famous of modern sculpture and painting must offend anyone with a knowledge of bodily structure—arms and legs of impossible shape joined on at improbable angles.) Next for quality of workmanship my vote would go to Miss Harry's Honiton lace collar, a precious possession that will last for two centuries at least, and showing exquisite skill in both design and fashioning. Of the photographs it is hard to choose between Coral Shores (Mr. Grenham), Wild Clematis (Mr. Grimble), and The 15th Hole (again Dr. Newton),—evidently a versatile artist. Next on my list come three heads, No. 223 (Mrs. Tat), No. 83 (Mr. Luis Chan), and No. 230 (Miss Whitham). Mr. Hunt's decorated map of the world fascinated me, and I would mention his attractive line cut as well.

STILL MORE

Of the water-colours, Colonel C. Lewis' Black Hill was outstanding in its delicacy of treatment. There were many entries by Mr. Wong Sui Ling, of which No. 148, Dockyard at Cheung Chau Wan was the most powerful and No. 153, Cloud Study, most attractive. No. 99 (Sunlight) by Lieut. A. de Santa Clara Ferreira, was a wonderful splash of light and colour. Mr. G. W. Arnold's interior was most ingenious (a door knob reflection of a lady in her bath), and Mr. Nicholl's Chinese Junk (No. 184) would make an excellent design for a bookplate. Three other paintings deserve mention—Mrs. Asche's Temple at Stanley, Lady Mary Barton's Old Bridge, Fanning, and Dr. Halsey's Morning Haze. And though barbaols does not appeal to me personally, I admired Mrs. Wardrop's decorated mirror and Mrs. Beale's ingenious name plates.

HEADLIGHTS

Are there any special laws applying to headlights in this Colony? I don't mean the dangle question—that has mostly been solved by the practice of dipping or dimming (though even this is often not as effective as it could be, owing to incorrect focussing); what worries me is the number of cars and lorries that travel with only a single headlight, and that, as often as not, the near-side one. If this is at all bright, it is impossible to see just how wide the approaching vehicle is, and on some of these corners a big car needs every inch of room available. There seems no valid reason why everyone should not be forced to have two headlights on all occasions, with a proviso that these should be dipped when driving through traffic.

TALKIE TOPICS

So many good films this past week that I have been out every single night. Did you see "Trick for Trick" at the Kings, with that wonderful magician Mr. Henry? Mysteriously appearing pigeons, mysteriously disappearing ladies, people being sawn in three pieces—all the appurtenances of magic were there; and the film that followed was almost as mystifying. Personally I liked "The Stranger's Return" at the Queens rather better. Lionel Barrymore goes from strength in his acting, and a simple film in the style of "State Fair" (and by the same author).

suited him excellently. If you missed this, make an effort to see it when it comes back to the Star or the Oriental. At both of these theatres there was something noteworthy—Edgar Wallace's famous play, "The Calendar" at the first, one of the best of the earlier British films; and Ronald Colman and Ann Harding at the Oriental in "Condemned"—a melodrama of a French penal settlement. Since all these came together in the first half of the week, I had to give the Central a miss, much as I hate missing anything with Sydney Howard playing lead. But until the big cinemas reduce their charges to something more within the scope of us people who are trying to economise, three films in one week is as much as most of us can manage—with preference given to a 50 cents visit to the Oriental!

H.M.S. PINAPORE

If there is one thing which is more exciting than anything else in a woman's life—of course, quite apart from such delights as a new dress or hat—it is a wedding, and of all weddings a Naval wedding. Grrn—say the Army devotees but I am not at all shaken.

Friday's wedding at St. John's which is almost a leaf of the romantic book of G. and S. was the brightest and the most imperial thrill I have had for ages. Such an array of royal blue and gold lace, interspersed by glimpses of red and sky blue! And such a glitter of swords to form the arch as Captain and Mrs. Addis left the Church. I felt quite envious, but Mrs. Addis looked so but Mrs. Addis looked so graciously sweet that she really deserved it all. (Fancy that from a woman!) And the dresses? They faded into unimportance before that glitter and the gold and blue! (I am glad I have an excuse, a legitimate one at last.)

Slight Hope For Small Majority

Paris, December 8.
Although there is a growing belief that, following the Socialist decision to abstain from voting, M. Chautemps will secure a small majority on the Finance Bill, the new Premier is not yet out of the wood.
The debate on the Bill was adjourned late to-night until tomorrow (Saturday) without the principle pitfall—Article Six providing for cuts in the salaries of officials and civil servants—having been reached.
The real crux of the debate has therefore still to be faced, although there is still every indication that the Socialists, in order to avoid the onus of bringing down the Government, will abstain from voting.

you canCure your teeth from within—

KALZANA, the Calcium food, is the new idea in the care of the teeth. For many years people thought that a clean tooth could not decay. Yet however carefully we cleaned them they always did decay. For your teeth, are living organs of the body; they may be weak, they may be ill and underfed. Through microscopic canals they get their food (calcium) from the blood.

Weak teeth give continuous trouble. By taking Kalzana, the calcium food, you can make your teeth strong and white and prevent decay.

A well-known dental surgeon writes:
"Kalzana makes the teeth strong and hard and so stops tooth decay. I have often seen extraordinary results."

Keep your teeth clean with a dentifrice, but make them strong with Kalzana. Only then will you be really free from decay. Kalzana will make your teeth hard and healthy. Moreover, Kalzana strengthens the whole constitution and gives your whole body increased powers of resistance.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"What It Is And How It Works"

(BY PETER V. ROSS, C.S.B.)

This is a continuation of the lecture on Christian Science by Mr. Ross which appeared in our Saturday's issue.

SILENT ARGUMENT

Almost incessantly does everyone carry on an argument, in silence most of the time, with himself. The argument is either for or against his best interests, against them generally, if he is not on his guard. Observe your mental processes occasionally and see if this is not true. How easy it is, as one converges with himself, to magnify his injustices and minimize his blessings. How almost irresistible it is to say business is bad, morals are on the decline, diseases are multiplying.

And how rather difficult it is to declare the obvious fact that the doors of opportunity were never so wide open as to-day that the world is getting better and its people better, that at last disease is being attacked, successfully because its vulnerable spot, its unreality, has been discovered.

We wonder why we are under the belief of bad business and bad health. Have not argued ourselves into the belief. Can we expect to break the belief unless we cultivate the habit of talking healthfully and sensibly to ourselves, insisting upon the true and repudiating the false? And the fundamental truth is that God is invisible Mind and Life, made manifest through man, and therefore that man is spiritual, not material, fashioned in perfection for a useful, endless career.

This mental debate, after all, is little else than mortal beliefs trying to array themselves against the invincible truths which God ceaselessly imparts to man. While it is a fact that God has made man spiritual and put him in a spiritual universe, out of reach of all disease and disaster, and in the presence of opportunity and supply sufficient to his needs, the mortal appearance is decidedly to the contrary. For the individual appears to be corporeal and mortal, and the realm he inhabits appears to be a world of danger and limitation. These appearances Christian Science teaches the individual not to ignore, but intelligently and industriously to cope with and rise above. He will require, in this campaign, the alertness and fortitude he can command. In his struggles he will be heartened by Paul's ringing declaration, "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me."

FACING DIFFICULTIES

Therefore while the Christian Scientist insists that disease, with its contagion and other supposed laws, is unreal, nevertheless he does not overlook its insidious claims. Rather he faces them understandingly and resolutely, declaring and realizing how impotent they must be, however formidable their appearance, when God, omnipotent and irrepressible Life, is in operation everywhere.

So with animal magnetism and evil generally. No person can afford to ignore their pretensions to power or their sinister purpose to influence his conduct. They must be grappled with intelligently and courageously, and actually reduced to their natural nothingness, however insinuating and persuasive they would have the individual believe. They are powerless and can be so realized, because they are unprincipled, and unprincipled forces can exert no influence where Principle operates incessantly and omnipotently. Let him who is confronted with temptation or confusion remember what Paul says, "It is God which worketh in you both to will, and to do his good pleasure."

In the "world of business" and industry, strife, greed, competition, rivalry, dishonesty, try to assert themselves, and to interfere with the success and well-being of the individual. For him to close his eyes to these sinister forces would be to invite them to smother him; those good things which are rightfully his. He must not, therefore, be indifferent to these pretended forces, but rather must look them fearlessly and intelligently in the face and see how impossible it is that they should accomplish anything in a realm where divine Mind controls, meting out justice and abundance to all.

The constant desire for understanding and righteousness, coupled with the expectation that the desire will be fulfilled, gradually enables one to put on the Christ-consciousness, to have the Mind which Christ Jesus enjoyed and which enabled him to exercise dominion over those influences which would bear the individual downward. As Mrs. Eddy says, in that inimitable way she has of stating spiritual truths, "the longing to be better and holier expressed in daily watchfulness and in striving to assimilate more of the divine character, will mould and fashion us anew, until we awake in His likeness" (Science and Health, page 4).

SCIENCE AND HEALTH

Christian Science has come into the world, as you all know, through Mary Baker Eddy. This great woman was a profound student of the Bible. While studying the Scriptures, especially the New Testament, it was revealed to her that Jesus in healing the sick, feeding the hungry, and raising the dead, was employing Science. He was not working wonders and miracles; he was putting into operation a Science which he understood. Naming her discovery Christian Science, Mr. Eddy set forth its teachings in her great book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures."

Perhaps some of you have not read "Science and Health." If not do not delay the matter. Do not depend on what people tell you about Mrs. Eddy or about Christian Science but get her book, and read it. It can be obtained in any public library or in any Christian Science Reading room. You will be astonished at the good you find in it; astonished at the good it will do you, for it will arouse in you the strength and health and ability which hitherto perhaps have been latent. It will enable you to get acquainted with the man of divine intelligence and irrepressible life God has made for you, and to put off the sickly, inefficient mortal that the human mind has tried to make you think you are. And as you proceed with your reading you will soon realize why it is that Mary Baker Eddy stands in the front rank of the benefactors of the human race.

SPIRITUAL MAN

She makes perfect God and perfect man the inspiring starting point in Christian Science practice. While we may concede that man is spiritual and perfect, we are inclined to think of him as a vapory creature somewhere away in the clouds. Instead of recognizing that he is here and now the everpresent expression of the everpresent God. Indeed this perfect man, this man of divine intelligence and imperishable life, this man with a world of opportunity and usefulness stretching out before him, is none other than yourself, your true self.

Keep in mind when reading about spiritual man or immortal man or the image and likeness of God that you are reading about yourself, your genuine self. Remember that when a Christian Scientist, in his attempt to break some dream of suffering, is talking to you of the perfect man, he is speaking of you. Not your supposed physical body or self, of course not. That is not you. It is the human mind's mistaken sense of you, and the erroneous sense of self as material and suffering melts away as the true sense of self dawns in consciousness.

INDIVIDUAL CONSCIOUSNESS

Our concept of the physical body has necessarily undergone radical changes as our belief that matter is real has yielded to our understanding that Mind is all. We used to speak of the body having a soul or consciousness. Then, as matter receded and became secondary to Mind, we spoke of consciousness having a body. But now that the aliveness of Mind is dawning, we speak of man as consciousness, or, more specifically, we say that man is an individual consciousness. "The conscious identity of being," to use Mr. Eddy's words (Science and Health page 475), God's man is mental and spiritual throughout without a vestige of corporeality.

This would be clear enough if we were not hampered by an apparent consciousness of both good and evil, of both health and sickness, as distinguished from genuine spiritual consciousness. This false consciousness is a sort of complex of fear, pain, and other mortal qualities. It tries to parade as man and make the individual believe that it, with its heaviness and suffering, is he. Far from being man, it may be likened to Macbeth's "poor player that struts and frets his hour upon the stage and then is heard no more."

This false consciousness we call a mortal or mortal man. He makes his entry into the world, at what is called birth, so tiny and dull a creature that months pass by before he becomes aware of himself. Under the influence of education and experience he progresses until, if disease or accident does not overtake him, he reaches his zenith in mortal manhood. Deterioration then begins. And the "bundle of sense testimony," thus industriously built up, finally dissolves and the place thereof knows it no more. The extinctionist viewing this passing phenomenon, and quite oblivious to the presence of enduring consciousness, naturally mistakenly concludes that man is of few days and full of trouble.

APARTNESS FROM MORTALITY

Entirely apart from false consciousness and always at hand, is the true consciousness of God's creating. It is a compound of life, intelligence, goodness—a compound of divine qualities. This consciousness knows what God knows, and knows nothing else. It is aware of life without beginning or end, without fear or pain. It is aware of intelligence and power sufficient for all human needs.

This genuine consciousness is man, the real you. Insist intelligently and reverently that it is you. Discard the false consciousness of helplessness and distress which claims to be you. Thereby the bonds of materiality will be loosed and the unobstructed realm of Spirit attained where.

Man in the sunshine of the world's new spring.

Shall walk transparent like some holy thing.

THOMAS MOORE

There are those who in extremity, or in quiet meditation, have found themselves detached from false consciousness, have viewed it as quite outside of and apart from themselves. This is as should be. The wonder is that the vision does not come to us all, and not only come to but abide so that we may permanently realize our apartness from mortality. For evil cannot mix with good. Disease cannot invade the realm of health. Consciousness cannot become unconscious. Life can never change to death. "We must hold forever the consciousness of existence," declares Mrs. Eddy; and "Man's individual being can no more die nor disappear in unconsciousness than can soul" (Science and Health, pages 428 and 427).

PREEXISTENCE SPIRITUAL

Man cannot help but live on and on indefinitely, for he is made up of imperishable elements. Look within yourself; look into consciousness. What do you find? Honesty, purpose, resolution, and an innumerable host of spiritual qualities. Take any one of them, honesty, for example. Can honesty have a collision? Can it be gassed or inflamed or extinguished? Can any spiritual quality suffer accident or pain? Can it experience birth, decay, dissolution? Manifestly not. Then man, as a compound of spiritual qualities, cannot suffer or experience such conditions.

Why not hold to these obvious truths, and reject the false consciousness of disease, accident, physical birth, age, and extinction? "Never born and never dying," it were impossible for man, under the government of God in eternal Science, to fall from his high estate," declares Mrs. Eddy (Science and Health, page 238). Spiritual man has not fallen; he cannot fall with the everlasting arms of Principle underneath. Your genuine self has not left heaven for earth. It is no more than a dream that you have been born into a realm of danger and destruction.

One of the first steps toward overcoming the belief of death is to overcome the belief of physical birth. So long as one entertains the belief that he has been ushered into this vale of tears, he can hardly hope to escape being ushered out of it. Indeed one can scarcely expect to gain permanent immunity from sickness and accidents, so long as he indulges the supposition that he has come into and inhabits a world of lawlessness and contagion.

When Mrs. Eddy declares, "Jesus' true and conscious being never left heaven for earth" (No and Yes, page 38), she declares a universal truth which every individual would do well to apply to himself: You have never left the abode of safety, the presence of God; your real self never has.

When you intelligently claim your present oneness with God, you begin to awake to the man of His creating, and the tottering mortal that physical sense proclaims begins to find dissolve into his natural state of nothingness. Then you begin to find in yourself the health and strength and ability God equips man with. If you are not trying to realize that your true self always has lived and always will live as a tangible witness to imperishable life, and therefore that birth and death are alike impostures, you are failing to utilize one of the fundamental truths of Christianity. In other words, you are not making your practice or treatment as searching and dynamic as you might.

GROUNDLESS FEARS

Always begin your treatment, says Mrs. Eddy, by allaying the fear of patients. (Science and Health, page 411). The soundness of this practice is apparent when we remember that the human mind and body are so intimately related that actually they are one. Therefore when the individual is half-frozen with fear, and this is the usual condition of mortals, inaction or even action in the body is inevitable. When, in place of the sense of fear, a sense of safety is established, the body will function as it should. And in order to gain an endurable sense of confidence, one must do his best to think rightly and live rightly. He who consciously permits in wrong-doing thereby invites fear and its consequences. He provokes the confusion and confusion of mortals, inaction or even depression of thought which reflects unfavourably on the body. Whereas the individual who tries to walk uprightly instinctively feels that he is entitled to health and safety. He has the courage to claim and expect them, for he knows he cannot drift beyond God's care.

Christian Science has a larger purpose, of course, than to establish and maintain physical health, however desirable that may be. Its primary aim is the overthrow of evil. And Science overthrows evil by pointing out its unreality in a universe governed by divine Principle and its unattractiveness to man as God's likeness. As one faces and denounces evil as unreal and not his, and fills his life with wholesome work and activity, he begins effectively to conquer evil, for he then not only loses his desire to do wrong, but what is quite as important, he masters his fear that he will do wrong and thereby incur punishment. To Him, the ancient prayer, "Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me," becomes natural and dynamic.

The spiritualization of thought which comes as one rules out his red and his allies and welcomes to his mental home love and its companions inevitably brings not only peace of mind but so clarifies vision that one begins to see the beauties of earth and recognize the perfection of man. It enables one to find his God-given confidence and ability to go forth and embrace the opportunities with which the world is packed and thereby carve out a career of usefulness.

How unwarranted after all our our fears when we remember that man is always in the presence of God. Certainly no danger can lurk "under the shadow of the Almighty." Accidents and diseases cannot invade a world governed by divine Principle or jeopardize incorporeal man. Out in the material realm the sunshine, or "the wind that bloweth where it listeth," suggests the nature of incorporeality. How can incorporeal man in an incorporeal universe suffer bruises or fractures or inflammation? Where in him are the materials out of which to construct growths or tumors? The answer must be that they have not been constructed, that they are not where they may seem, except in belief.

CONTINUITY OF LIFE

Speak the truth to these things and conditions, searchingly and confidently. They are not there, they are not yours, they cannot touch you. They have no substance, no law to support them. They are comparable to the perils of the sleeping dream. How dreadful they are at times! Yet actually they never touch you, and presently you awake and find that throughout the supposed tragedy you have been entirely safe. Some day this waking dream of disease will break. Indeed it is already breaking; for are not our dreams almost at an end when we begin to suspect that we are dreaming? Do more than suspect. Know it!

Almost every day someone confronted with an accident, declares the truth that man is incorporeal, and goes through the experience unharmed or practically so. I know of a woman who one evening attended a lecture where the incorporeality of man was so clearly presented that she grasped its significance. A few days afterward she was hit by an automobile. As friends picked her up and pronounced her gone, she silently and stoutly insisted to herself: "I am incorporeal. I am not hurt. I cannot be. I am alive and safe in the presence of God." Presently she was on her feet. The truth she declared saved her. The truth always saves and liberates. She refused to accept appearances. Had she yielded to what her friends were saying, she perhaps had passed on.

And yet, in fact, she would not have come to an end. When a person, according to the verdict of his friends, passes away, he finds that he is still himself and aware of existence. This must be the case because man as an individual spiritual consciousness persists and endures on and on, regardless of what may seem to happen to the physical body or to mortal consciousness. "Mind," says Mrs. Eddy, "is perpetual motion." (Science and Health, page 240). You have in yourself an example of perpetual motion, and that is your thinking. Try as you may you cannot stop thinking, and the intelligence of the all-knowing Mind we call God, and God cannot be suppressed. Therefore you cannot stop thinking, and you cannot stop living. Mortal consciousness may lapse temporarily, and eventually fade out entirely, but spiritual consciousness, your genuine self, can never for an instant be silenced or interrupted.

London Air-Mail Letter

Mediterranean Cruise: Oxford and Cambridge Expedition to Borneo: Countess Haig and Poppy Day: Police 'Specials': Mr. John Burns!

Special Air-Mail Service

London, Nov. 22.

ADVENTUROUS UNDER-GRADUATES

Expeditions to out-of-the-way parts of the world seem to be increasing in popularity with young Oxford.

Mr. E. A. Shackleton, the late Sir Ernest Shackleton's son, only recently returned from a joint Oxford and Cambridge expedition to Borneo.

But he is already planning a visit to the Arctic Circle in a few months' time.

Mr. John de Laio, the son of the portrait painter, is another adventurous young man. He spent three months in Spitzbergen this summer, where he was in charge of the University expedition's wireless station.

The party was kept supplied with fresh meat by Mr. de Laio's skill as a marksman. Duck, geese and seals were his victims.

AN OXFORD PARTY

I met Mr. de Laio at the party given by Mr. Philip Stockill, Sir Anthony Jenkinson and Mr. Grimmond—the largest party, I was told, given in Oxford in recent years.

Two hundred and fifty guests are a tax on the accommodation of the normal Oxford "digs." Most of the Oxford "celebrities" of the past decade managed to squeeze in somehow, and seemed to be greatly enjoying themselves.

ANOTHER "B.P." CRUISE

I hear that plans are advancing for a spring cruise to the Mediterranean for members of the Boy Scout and Girl Guide movements. Lord and Lady Baden-Powell are again leading the party of some 600 Scout and Guide officers.

Like the Baltic cruise last summer, the intention is to visit the Scouts and Guides at the various ports of call and establish friendly contact with them.

Gibraltar, Villefranche, Malta, Algiers and Lisbon are on the itinerary.

COUNTESS HAIG

To no one will the record response to the Poppy Day appeal bring greater pleasure than to Countess Haig. Since the death of her husband she has devoted herself ceaselessly to the cause which he had so much at heart.

This year, unfortunately, she was prevented from taking an active part in the Poppy Day effort. The reason was an illness brought about by overstrain resulting from her indefatigable efforts on behalf of ex-Servicemen.

CITY POLICE "SPECIALS"

Mr. W. G. Lovell, Commandant of the City of London Police Reserve, which is over 3,000 strong, is about to retire after twenty-two years' service, the last five and a half in command.

This was announced at the officers' dinner, at Grocers' Hall, last night.

Sir Hugh Turnbull, Commissioner of City Police, expressing his regret at the announcement, said he did not know what the "regulars" would do in the City without the "Specials," with whom they worked in complete amity and goodfellowship.

MR. BURN'S PRIVATE SECRETARY

Many of the younger generation have never even heard of Mr. John Burns. But older people were quick to recognise him when he attended the funeral of Mr. F. L. Turner, who had served him as private secretary in the days of the Local Government Board.

The good private secretary does not always get his full share of credit, being hidden behind a more dominating personality. But Mr. Turner would not have had it otherwise. Modest and unassuming, he never courted publicity in any of the important secretarial tasks that devolved on him.

After his retirement he devoted himself to charitable committee work. In this capacity his tact, courtesy, clear judgment and wide knowledge proved of the greatest service.

GREATEST STATE SPECTACLE

The crowded state of the public galleries in the House of Commons during the past fortnight—the tag end of the old session—suggest that exceptional public interest will be exhibited in the proceedings of the new session. Certainly Londoners, who dearly love a pageant, will be there in their thousands on Tuesday to witness the fine spectacle of the State drive from Buckingham Palace to Westminster. It is within the House of Lords itself that the proceedings assume their full dignity and significance when His Majesty, occupying the Throne and wearing his Crown, addresses the three estates of the realm assembled before him. The spectacle afforded is perhaps the richest in sheer picturesqueness in the whole British tradition, a mass of variegated colour being lent by the robes of the Peers, the Ambassadorial uniforms, the surplised Bishops, and the Judges. The Peeresses are mostly accommodated in the well of the Chamber. The entrance of the Prince of Wales, just ahead of their Majesties, is the signal for the Peeresses to throw off their cloaks, revealing—flashing jewels and comely shoulders.

PREMIER MEETS A BOYHOOD FRIEND

The Prime Minister, who was accompanied by Miss Isabel Macdonald, visited the H.M.V. factory at Hayes, Middlesex, yesterday, where he spent nearly an hour behind locked doors inspecting the secret developments in high definition ultra short-wave television.

He was walking through the department where gramophone records are made when an employee called out: "Don't you know me now, Ramsey?" The Prime Minister paused and then exclaimed, "Well, well if it isn't Alex Shaw. Now, wasn't your old dad harbourmaster at Looismouth?" "He was, and he chased us two away from the harbour many times," replied Mr. Shaw.

"It must be over two score years since we met last," said Mr. Macdonald. "How is the world treat-

FILMHistory in British Film Production

This year has been a remarkable one in the history of British film production. Studios built regardless of expense and with the finest possible technical equipment have just got into their stride, and are now delivering films of first class entertainment value. From time to time a film of outstanding merit is given to the public and, in the last few months, at least two may be mentioned—"I was a Spy" and "The Good Companions." The former is undoubtedly one of the best "Spy" films ever made; the second is a version of J.B. Priestley's popular novel. In "I was a Spy" the production and photography are as good as can be found in the best foreign films. "The Good Companions" is essentially English in spirit, and has been extremely successful in all parts of Great Britain.

In the last week of October a new British film "The Private Life of Henry VIII" was first seen by the London public. It took many film-goers by surprise for, although they had realised that the British studios are capable of really excellent work, few were prepared for such technical perfection, magnificent acting, and thrilling narrative. This film may be said to have so far surpassed all others produced this year, in any country, that it gives the first position for quality to the British studio which made it. It is a jo-

MYSTERY OF THE

Queen's

In "The Mystery of the Wax Museum" the Warner Bros. production which will be shown at the Queen's Theatre on Wednesday, the producers feel confident that they have achieved something far off the beaten path of motion picture entertainment. It is calculated to startle the most sophisticated theatregoer, and stir the most jaded palate.

new and radically different note. Lovers of the unusual will find an eerie fascination in watching a gentle giant, but crippled Russian sculptor struggling to create a group of wax statues that will startle the world when his little wax museum opens its doors to the public.

Then a series of strange, inexplicable crimes throws the metropolis into an uproar, the police and the press take up the hue-and-cry and a young newspaper woman finds herself called upon to solve, single-handed, one of the most baffling mysteries of modern times.

Nothing has been spared to make young and witty drama in settings of great beauty, there fine artistry and at the same time entertainment in it. It is to be hoped that this fine film (which is also essentially English in spirit) will find its way to many overseas markets, those who see it can hardly fail to be struck by the immense progress it represents, not only for the British film industry, but for the industry generally.

"KONGO"

Showing At The Queen's

In "Kongo" a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production now showing at the Queen's Theatre, Walter Huston lavishes his amazing skill of character acting on a gripping and sensational story as the screen yet has seen.

It is a startling story, stark, tense, colourful, bringing in the mystery of the African jungle and the tangled lives of the whites and blacks who fight for existence against the forces of nature.

DEVIL-WORSHIPPER RITES

Wired and fantastic rites of the black devil-worshippers, the strange spell of a sinister, paralyzed, white tyrant who rules his empire by black magic, and a diabolical scheme for revenge that makes the beholder gasp in astonishment—these are the dramatic incidents against which a strange but touching love story is unfolded.

Walter Huston plays "Deadlegs" Flint, who rules with a long snake-whip from the wheelchair to which he has been confined by a man who stole his wife and crippled him in the struggle. It is Flint's relentless and desperate desire for revenge that has brought him to the heart of the Dark Continent on the trail of his foe.

LUPE VELEZ IN FIERY ROLE

C. Henry Gordon plays Gregg, the man Walter Huston is out to trap. Virginia Bruce is a white girl whom Flint plans to use in his diabolical scheme for revenge. Lupe Velez has a fiery role as a Portuguese girl who serves as Flint's mistress. Conrad Nagel is the white doctor who has fallen victim to the black man's curse and seeks regeneration in love for the girl he rescues from Flint's toils.

Credit is due William Cowen for his able direction of this thrilling melodrama. There are many deft touches, thrilling effects and startling action, and Cowen has handled all with a sure grip and knowing eye.

Not the least notable is the background, which shows a trading post in a large expanse of African jungle, with its dense foliage, wild animals, and weird tribal rites.

"The Mystery of the Wax Museum" one of the most lavish and realistic pictures of the year. A modern wax museum, with more than a hundred life size wax figures was created for the production. Photographed in Technicolor, these famous historical personages in their gorgeous costumes, form a striking background as a silent audience for the present-day drama enacted before them within the walls of the wax museum.

Directed by Michael Curtis, whose success in the creation of "Doctor X" has made him recognized as a master of the suspense and thriller, the picture is said to have a terrific climax. Although there is abundant comedy relief, deftly woven into the pattern of the story.

HELL'S HOLIDAY

Attractive Programme
At The Central

"Hell's Holiday" a pictorial record of the Great War is all that one may wish for in the way of war pictures and the management of Central Theatre are to be congratulated on securing this compilation of official war pictures taken overseas during the great conflict.

"Hell's Holiday" is an authentic film of the great war and depicts scenes taken on the various battle fronts. While many war films have been shown, this one is new ground in that a considerable amount of footage is devoted to the work of the Allied Fleets, and an insight is given of the terrible "U" Boat warfare. Scenes are also shown of the Italian and Russian fronts and of aerial battles.

Two very interesting shorts, "The Ramblers" and "Baby Blues" precede the feature film and on the whole the current programme at this popular theatre is one of the most attractive they have presented for a long time.

LARGE DISTRICT FAIR

Kiang District

According to a Canton vernacular paper, it is stated that in order to improve the trade and commerce, the Magistrate of the Kuk-Kiang District has recently decided to open a large District Fair in that district.

The Fair as planned, will be built at the junction of the New Yung Ping Road and the Kwong Shui Railway, which is now becoming the most prosperous and flourishing centre of the whole district.

It has lately been confirmed that two Executive Committees of the Reconstruction Department of the Kuk-Kiang District have been sent to that place to survey and make plans, and it is also reported that the whole Fair will be completed and opened to the public at the end of this year.

RONALD COLMAN
AT HIS BESTDoes Great Work In Masquerader

It is a strange sensation to meet a man personally and then to see him in all his glory upon the silver screen. In some instances it may detract from the appreciation of the film, but with Ronald Colman it only makes one appreciate his work all the more. In the "Masquerader," that production showing at the King's Theatre, this famous actor, who was in the Colony a few days ago, gives what is perhaps one of the greatest performances of his career. He plays two distinct parts, that of a drunken good for nothing politician and his cousin a young Canadian Journalist, who is the image of his dissipated relation. The character of the Young Journalist is a part in which the real Colman is depicted. One can almost imagine that it is the story of the actor's life, for his every movement and action is so typical of him. The dramatization of the character of the worthless cousin is truly a work of art.

In discussing the "Masquerader," while he was here, Mr. Colman said that it was one of the most exciting productions he had ever played in and the amount of trick photography needed was beyond all imagining.

Clever Cast

Playing with Mr. Colman in his dual roles are Elissa Landi as the wife and Juliette Compton as the other woman. The distinguished cast of characters includes Halliwell Hobbes, David Torrance, Helen Jerome Eddy and Creighton Hale.

"The Masquerader" was adapted to the screen by Howard Estabrook, brilliant Motion Picture Academy medalist and scenarist of "Cimarron." Moss Hart wrote the dialogue. The screen play was adapted from John Hunter Booth's dramatization of the novel by Katherine Cecil Thurston. It is produced and presented by Samuel Goldwyn.

Richard Wallace brings to "The Masquerader" the same smooth, sensitive direction that characterized his work on "Shopworn Angel," "Seven Days' Leave," "The Right to Love" and "To-morrow and To-morrow."

"The Masquerader" is Mr. Colman's second picture this season following his diling of the stage hit, "Cynara." He expects to spend a long summer sailing the Aegean before he again returns to Hollywood.

THE OLD TESTAMENT—HOW TO READ IT Religion And Its Appeal To Imagination BISHOP HALL AT ST. JOHN'S

Bishop Hall preached the fourth of his series of Sermons on "How to read the Old Testament" at St. John's Cathedral yesterday.

No man likes to be a prig. Many men fight shy of religion because they are afraid of priggishness. They make a bad mistake. Religion which makes prigs is bad religion. It is perhaps difficult to compare one's own day with days that have gone. But one might hazard a guess that religion makes fewer prigs to-day than it did thirty or forty years ago. A man does not come to Church to-day to "better himself." He does not come because he wants to be good. He comes because there is an unsatisfied longing in his heart for something more than himself. He comes to Church because God draws him.

Unfortunately, the Old Testament to many of us has been taught around the Ten Commandments. As we think back to our childhood days, there stand out the delightful stories of Adam and Eve, of Abraham, Jacob and David and then the Ten Commandments. The rest of the Bible, composed of poetry and prophecy, reminds us perhaps a little bit of the coming of the Messiah, but has little other meaning for us.

I want you to see the Old Testament differently. If you stand in the Chamonix Valley in the French Italian frontier, you find it difficult to pick out Mt. Blanc. Many other peaks are even snow-covered and higher. Climb the hill on the North side of the Valley, and stop, as one must stop, to take breath every now and then, and look South towards Italy. Each time the majesty and the height of Mt. Blanc stands out more clearly as though it was growing as one walked. The little peaks that from the Valley looked as high sink into insignificance. I want you to come to the Book of Deuteronomy in the same way. I want if I can to-night to make it stand out in its true majesty as the dominating Book in the whole range of Old Testament literature. There are more beautiful passages in other Books, as we shall find when we come to Isaiah. There are passages in other Books more profoundly aware of the need of man for God, as we shall see when we come to the Psalms. There are passages in other Books more concerned with the deep problems of life, as for example in the Book of Job. But the clue to the Old Testament as a whole, the Book that holds the range together is the Book of Deuteronomy.

Listen to these words:—"Hear O Israel; the Lord Our God is one Lord: and thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy might. And these words that I command thee this day shall be upon thine heart, and thou shalt teach them diligently unto thy children and shalt talk of them when thou sittest in thine house and when thou walkest by the way, and when thou liest down and when thou risest up. And thou shalt bind them for a sign upon thine hand and they shall be for frontlets between thine eyes. And thou shalt write them upon the doorposts of thine house and upon thy gates."

OUR LORD'S FAVOURITE BOOK.
No wonder Deuteronomy was the treasured Book of the returned exiles, who built up a new religion life on the basis of the religious history of their people, from about 400 B.C. to the time of Christ. No wonder in the Temptations of Our Lord every answer given to the tempter is from the Book of Deuteronomy. No wonder He found in this Gospel of love the sum of the law and the prophets, the supreme summit of Old Testament teaching. We have good grounds for believing Deuteronomy to be the favourite book of Jesus of Nazareth.

But you must not think of Deuteronomy alone. Deuteronomy and the Books of Kings go hand in hand. One is history, the other is teaching. In language and style and outlook the Books of Kings and the Book of Deuteronomy are inseparable. The Book of Kings begins with the close of the reign of David and Solomon's building of the Temple. It shows how the Kingdom and the worship centred in the Temple of Jerusalem was divided in two. It traces the history of the Northern Kingdom and its two great prophets, Elijah and Elisha, down to the fall of Samaria; the northern capital—in 722 B.C. It traces the history of the Southern Kingdom and her great prophet Isaiah, and the great high priests who followed the prophets, down to the destruction of Jerusalem in 586. It has one lesson and one lesson alone, that man must love and worship God.

The destruction of the two kingdoms is due to their desertion of the pure worship of Jehovah centred in Jerusalem.

THE BOOK FOUND IN THE TEMPLE.

The passage which most plainly links the two Books together is the dramatic story in the Second Book of Kings of the finding of the Book of the Law in the Temple, in the reign of Josiah about 630 B.C. Two things seem to be pretty certain about this Book of the Law. The first, that it must have consisted of, at any rate sections of, our present Book of Deuteronomy. Secondly, it could not be the Book in its present form. On the score of length alone the second point can be taken as proved. It seems to have been a fairly easy matter to read through the whole Book. As regards the first point, the evidence is simply this. Nearly all the reforms carried out by Josiah as the result of the finding of the Book are the reforms advocated in the Book of Deuteronomy.

A MODERN PERSON IN THE OLD TESTAMENT.

Hilkiah the High Priest, who realised the importance of this discovery is of tremendous interest at this point. He is more like the modern person than either a prophet or a priest. Your childhood's teaching makes you think of prophets who are men of God, and of priests who are men of ritual. Have you ever stopped to think how it is you know about the prophets? Who preserved their teaching? It was men like Hilkiah who preserved it. They were devoted to the Temple worship because it was worship of God; and devoted to the teachings of the prophets because they loved and understood the hearts of men. It was men of this stamp, serving in the Temple Courts of Jerusalem, who have virtually made our Bible as we now have it. They made the Jewish community of which Mary and Joseph, the parents of Our Lord, are representative. These men treasured the teachings of the prophets, and rewrote the old histories of their people in the light of prophetic teaching. These men kept the flame of religion alive in the days of captivity and in the more difficult days of the return. They were zealous for the Temple of God, and for the purity of the worship of His people. They taught men to love God and to live in His Company.

WHY THE BIBLE BOOKS WERE WRITTEN.

It is so easy in reading a book of the Bible, whether it is about Isaiah or the stories of the kings of Israel, to think of the book as being written at the time of the events they describe. This is all the more true of old books. There was no printing. Scrolls were of a limited length. The results was a literature so dramatic and so picturesque that it is difficult to imagine the Book written long after the events. The Book of Kings written, in modern times would make much more apparent of the casual reader that it is writing about past events with a purpose of its own. The writer would make it easier for you and me to see the Book as a whole. You can read the two Books of Kings without realising why the writer traces the history of the Temple from its building by Solomon right down to its restoration as a centre of pure worship by Josiah, or why he describes the fate of both Samaria and Jerusalem because they were not faithful to this worship and to God. Plainly a book written in this way must have been written after all the things that were described, and at a time when the temple worship was trying again to assert itself and its claims on the Jewish people. It does not make the historical value of the Book any less to realize that it was written some two or three hundred years after the events described. We must, however, suppose that when the Temple was destroyed many of its records with historical details were carried by the faithful priests into captivity.

DEPOSIT OF RELIGIOUS REVIVALS.

The Book of Deuteronomy is the deposit of three periods of religious revival in Jewish history. The first period is the date of the writing of the Book of the Law found in the time of Josiah. This may have been in the time of the dominance of Isaiah during the reign of Hezekiah, that is 70 years before Josiah's reign. In that case it would have been written as a handbook of religious and moral practices for those who had accepted the prophetic faith of Isaiah. The 70 years following Isaiah and Hezekiah saw the whole Temple defamed by false worship, and the dominance again of a religious priesthood. We can well imagine how the precious Book may have been built into a wall by a persecuted minority, to be discovered in the building of the Temple 70 years later. The time of its discovery was the second period of religious vitality. The Book was welcomed and made the basis for drastic religious reform. Drastic in this, that every other centre of worship was destroyed. It is difficult to believe that men who cared enough for the Book of Deuteronomy with its very high commandments to love God and love one's neighbour, should have centred their worship in Jerusalem in order that the coffers of the Temple might be well filled by those who were drawn to worship there. One can only suppose that they saw that the purity of the worship of Jehovah depended on centralisation in Jerusalem. Places of worship in the country districts too easily became dominated by pagan worship. The third period was when the Book reached its present form two hundred years later, when the returned exiles were setting out again to build their country's life round the worship of Jehovah in Jerusalem.

The results of this centralizing policy are clearly seen in the Gospels. Every village has its synagogue, but only the Temple in Jerusalem has sacrificial worship. It is from the synagogue worship that our own Christian worship has developed. The Psalms are its Hymn Book and Prayer Book in one, and the Old Testament its Bible.

THE WEEK AHEAD OF US.

But you have not come to-night for a history lesson. You have not come to-night to learn more about an old book, and the manner of its writing. You have not come even to learn how you may carry out more fully the teaching of that Book. You have come to church to-night because another week lies ahead of you, and you would share that week with God. You have come because life has many problems and makes many demands, and you know that you cannot answer those problems or meet those demands in your own strength.

The word Deuteronomy means Second Book of the Law. But being a Christian is not keeping the Law. Nor does the Book of Deuteronomy imagine that God requires of Man only the keeping of laws. Deuteronomy is filled with the love of God. It urges men to love God. Last Sunday night you heard how Amos and Hosea described the character of God. "How," says Amos, "can two walk together unless they be agreed?" God and man, man and God—there can be no contact between them unless they be agreed. Is God to agree with Man and walk in the ways of man's choosing, or is Man to live in agreement with God and say with Jesus Christ, "Nevertheless, not my will but Thine be done." Hosea saw deeper even than Amos into the possibility that Man might walk with God. For Hosea took back in love and forgiveness the wife who had become a prostitute. "That redemptive love," he said, "is the love in the heart of God for Man."

Who was it who treasured these precious teachings so that they were reproduced in the Book of the Law which was found in the Temple in the time of Josiah? We do not know. But we do know that it must have been men who knew the same God and walked with Him. They could not walk with Him unless they were agreed. They urge us to love God because they know that God loves Man. They knew it in their hearts; they knew it in their lives; they knew it in their experience with their fellow-men; they knew it because God showed His heart to them. Deuteronomy is a person's book. It is the person's job to make available for everyday life the great visions of the prophets; that all men may keep company with God. I speak to you to-night as Deuteronomy spoke to the Jews. We are in the presence of the same God. He loves us in the same way. What is our conduct to be during this week? Are we to be any different because we have met to worship Him this Sunday night? You will not go away knowing better the laws of the Jewish people written in their Second Book of Law. You will not go away and spend the next seven days trying to keep these rules; if you did you would finish the week merely a prig. Pray God you will go away more assured of Him; of His power down the ages to speak to men who will hear Him, to purify worship and to purify lives not by making laws but by winning love. This is the God Who spoke to Isaiah and Hezekiah and spoke to Josiah and Hilkiah. Who kept in the days of the exile and in the years that followed many men and women His devoted lovers—walking with Him because they were agreed. To love Him and to serve Him. If it is of this God Deuteronomy speaks, this God through the pangs of Deuteronomy spoke even to Jesus Christ. Let Him speak to you to-night a message of love and peace. "How can two walk together unless they are agreed?" Agree with God. Accept His love that you and He may walk together this week and all the days of your life.

I.R.C. BATTING FAILS AGAIN

Lucky To Force Draw Against K.C.C.

CLUB'S SPORTING DECLARATION PAY

The Indians-Kowloon match in the premier division at Sookunpoo on Saturday which promised to be an exciting affair, fizzled out tamer to a draw owing to the fact that the I.R.C. batting again failed. The Indians, on the run of the day's play, were extremely fortunate in getting a point.

Kowloon batted first and thanks to some bright batting by E. F. Fletcher (44) and N. A. E. Mackay (45) declared at 170 for 6. The Indians were up against some mediocre bowling, but apart from A. H. Rumjahn (29), A. R. Minu (22) and K. Nazarin (15), who is the captain of their second eleven, their batsmen failed tragically and were 90 for 9 when stumps were drawn. Gordon Burnett took five wickets for 25 runs in twelve overs, two of which were maidens.

CLUB TAKES SPORTING CHANCE

On the Club ground, the home captain took a sporting chance when he declared their innings closed at 115 for 7 in their league match against Craignower Cricket Club, but this policy paid and they won by six runs, just beating the clock to it.

Two league matches in the second division were played and these resulted in wins for Craignower (holders) and the Navy over R.A.M.C. and Civil Service Cricket Club juniors respectively.

There were also a few friendly matches played and the results of these will be found below.

CLUB XV DEFEAT ARMY BY 16 TO NIL

Excellent Work By Club's Back Division

Displaying a backfield attack that left their opponents absolutely standing, the Hongkong Club Rugby team downed the Army by a sixteen to nil score at the Sookunpoo on Saturday.

The game opened with the Club taking the kick and following it up they marched well into the Army territory, only to be driven back step by step by the aggressive Service pack. Five minutes after the commencement of play the Club were hemmed in their own, twenty-five yard line and fighting hard to hold their ground.

Suddenly, the Club half caught the ball as it came out of a loose scrum and passed it out to his three's who made a beautiful run which terminated with Lammert running straight through three men for the opening touchdown. McLeellan failed to convert.

Lammert Scores Again

With the score three points to nothing against them the Army again went on the offensive and soon had the Club bottled up once more inside their own twenty-five. Just when it appeared as though they were bound to even the score, the Club three-quarters once more saved the situation and after two successive short runs Lammert received the ball well out on the wing and with hardly any opposition crossed over for the second try. McLeellan took the kick and sent the ball sailing over the cross bar for two more points.

The half ended with the score eight, nothing in favor of the Club.

Second Half

The second period was not more than two minutes old when Ferguson caught the ball and running through half the Army team appeared well on his way to a touchdown. Suddenly, apparently from out of nowhere, Gould, the Army fullback flashed into view and downed him with a beautiful flying tackle, the ball going into touch. Following the lineup the Service men pushed their way up the field and just when the situation began to look serious for the Club, they lost possession of the ball and gave the Civilians an opportunity to unleash another of their powerful three-quarter runs which ended with Lammert crashing his way through for the third try. The kick was not converted.

It was at this point that the Army showed that spirit for which they are noted and despite the heavy score against them went on the offensive. Time after time they out-pushed the heavier club scrum both in the scrimmages and in the loose and several times it appeared as though they could not help but score, but always either a fumble or a nice tackle by one of the Club backfield men robbed them of their opportunity.

Displaying a backfield attack that left their opponents absolutely standing, the Hongkong Club Rugby team downed the Army by a sixteen to nil score at the Sookunpoo on Saturday.

The game opened with the Club taking the kick and following it up they marched well into the Army territory, only to be driven back step by step by the aggressive Service pack. Five minutes after the commencement of play the Club were hemmed in their own, twenty-five yard line and fighting hard to hold their ground.

Suddenly, the Club half caught the ball as it came out of a loose scrum and passed it out to his three's who made a beautiful run which terminated with Lammert running straight through three men for the opening touchdown. McLeellan failed to convert.

Lammert Scores Again

With the score three points to nothing against them the Army again went on the offensive and soon had the Club bottled up once more inside their own twenty-five. Just when it appeared as though they were bound to even the score, the Club three-quarters once more saved the situation and after two successive short runs Lammert received the ball well out on the wing and with hardly any opposition crossed over for the second try. McLeellan took the kick and sent the ball sailing over the cross bar for two more points.

The half ended with the score eight, nothing in favor of the Club.

Second Half

The second period was not more than two minutes old when Ferguson caught the ball and running through half the Army team appeared well on his way to a touchdown. Suddenly, apparently from out of nowhere, Gould, the Army fullback flashed into view and downed him with a beautiful flying tackle, the ball going into touch. Following the lineup the Service men pushed their way up the field and just when the situation began to look serious for the Club, they lost possession of the ball and gave the Civilians an opportunity to unleash another of their powerful three-quarter runs which ended with Lammert crashing his way through for the third try. The kick was not converted.

It was at this point that the Army showed that spirit for which they are noted and despite the heavy score against them went on the offensive. Time after time they out-pushed the heavier club scrum both in the scrimmages and in the loose and several times it appeared as though they could not help but score, but always either a fumble or a nice tackle by one of the Club backfield men robbed them of their opportunity.

LONDON TRAFFIC BOARD

By the coming into operation of the London Passenger Transport Act a new record was created in municipal traffic enterprise. Through that Act a London Passenger Transport Board was created, with control over nearly all the passenger transport undertakings within a radius of thirty miles of Charing Cross. The working of the new combine will affect 9,500,000 people living in an area of approximately 1,700 square miles. As far as the public is concerned, for the time being the railways, omnibuses, and trams will function as usual. The change-over is in the matter of administration and control. This, instead of being in the hands of competitive, private concerns, will be the care of the Board, a semi-public body whose first job will be the co-ordination of all the services, the elimination of wasteful competition, and the guaranteeing of adequate services for the public.

Like every other revolutionary undertaking, the linking up of the 89 undertakings involved is not the work of a moment or even of a few years. The idea of co-ordinating London traffic is nearly eighty years old. It began with the forming of the London General Omnibus Company in 1855. The Company's intention was to obtain control of all the London omnibuses, which carried nearly the whole of the passenger traffic. The passing of the Tramways Act in 1870 brought into existence the various metropolitan tramway systems, which played so large a part in subsequent transport development. The London County Council system, now taken over by the new Board, covers 167 miles of route and carries 700,000,000 passengers a year. Its staff numbers 13,000 and its salaries and wages bill totals about £2,500,000 a year.

For long it had been realised that every railway system in London should come under one management, but it was only comparatively recently that Lord Ashfield by means of the Underground Electric Railway Company of London, was able to secure something approaching completion of this task. Steadily the work went on under the pressure of economic necessity in the transport industry. The coming of the motor-bus helped for a time in the work of co-ordination—though in 1922 there was a new outburst of independent activity, and competitive enterprises sprung into being. Four years ago a Bill was put forward by the then Conservative Government for the co-ordination of London passenger traffic. When the Conservatives fell the Bill was dropped by the incoming Labour Government. Under Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, and in substitution a new Bill was put forward which, with certain modifications, has now been passed by the National Government.

The 89 undertakings which have now been absorbed by the new Board comprise five railways, fourteen tramways, 62 omnibuses, four coach companies, and four subsidiary undertakings. Their total capital is approximately £120,000,000. The passenger-carrying vehicles taken over number 14,430—Underground Railway coaches, 3,000; omnibuses, 3,350; coaches, 420; trams, 2,000; and trolley omnibuses, 80. The total number of staff employed is 71,900, and the number of passengers car-

LOCAL WEDDING

Rafeek—Lau

The wedding was solemnised yesterday of Miss Annie Lau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lau Shiu-chuen and Mr. Solomon Rafeek, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Rafeek of Hong Kong, and after the ceremony a reception was held at Gloucester Restaurant when a large number of friends gathered to drink to the health and happiness of the bride and bridegroom.

The bride made a very pretty picture in her dress of ivory tulle and d'ange, guipure with long train, finished with a bouillonne of satin, and carried a bouquet of gladioli. She was attended by the Misses Yeung Sau-king and Pansy Pang while the best man was Mr. S. A. Rumjahn, the duties of the usher being discharged by Mr. Cheung Wing-kwong.

Mr. E. G. Stewart toasted the bride and bridegroom while Mr. A. H. Rumjahn did the honours to the bridesmaids. The bridegroom and the best man made suitable replies.

In the evening a Chinese dinner was given at the Kam Ling Restaurant and here again a large number of friends were present.

The honeymoon is being spent in Manila.

ALL-ELECTRIC BRITAIN

Tremendous Strides Being Made

When the Central Electricity Board was formed in 1927 to plan and construct the network of transmission lines which now covers the country, and which is popularly known as the "Grid," Great Britain stood about sixth or seventh among the nations of the world as measured by generation of electricity. Last year, before the Grid was completed, the country had advanced to the third position; and, with the present rate of advance in the demand for current, it is likely to head the list next year. Last year, when nearly all other nations had a reduced consumption of current, this country's demand increased by seven per cent.

Now the main transmission lines have been completed, the last tower being erected on the edge of the New Forest a few weeks ago. The lines extend for 4,000 miles, and 5,000 pylons have been erected to support them. Two large industrial centres in which the Grid has for ten months been in complete commercial operation are Central Scotland and Mid-East England—mainly Yorkshire. Within the next three months, North West England, South East England, and North Wales will be in a similar position, leaving five more areas to be completed. The whole scheme is expected to be in operation in less than two years' time. The problem of supplying cheap electricity and widely extending its use in Great Britain has depended for a solution mainly on the eliminating of poor generating plant, the standardisation of voltage and frequency, and the co-ordination of production and the achievement of uniformity of price. The problem has now been solved, and enormous progress made, especially on the technical side.

ried in 1932 was 3,463,000,000.

One interesting feature of the powers conferred on the new Board is that they may run a river service. Early in the present century there was a service of steamboats run by the London County Council, but it became the subject of bitter political controversy and the service was finally abolished. Of late years there has been some agitation for a new "Water-Bus" service on the Thames, and this has found a certain amount of influential support; but such a project will no doubt be held subordinate to the more immediate work of the Board. That work is the development of the present services, their co-ordination and improvement, and the abolition of waste through needless competition. Ultimately there may be a reduction of fares, but that is not regarded as being of immediate importance or a practical line of policy. At the present time fares are remarkably low, and further reductions can wait. The Board's first objective is the absolute efficiency of the existing system.

BRITISH AIR POWER

To Be Increased In The East

London, Dec. 9.

It is practically certain that the next British Air Estimates will provide for the addition of three air squadrons to the Home Defence out of the 10 extra squadrons laid down ten years ago.

A fourth squadron may be provided to replace the squadron which left England for Singapore yesterday.

Personnel numbering 100, for a squadron of Royal Air Force planes, left for Singapore aboard the P. and O. liner Ranpara, yesterday. The planes belonging to the squadron, which are Vickers Wilbeeste torpedo-bombers are going by another route.

The arrival of the squadron at Singapore will bring up the strength of the Air Force there to three squadrons.

Those at present there are Squadron 38, composed of torpedo-bombers, and Squadron 205, composed of flying-boats.

It is understood that the arrangements to move the squadron to Singapore were made many months ago.—Reuter.

It is stated that Japan is endeavouring to reach amicable commercial agreements with all countries concerned by the establishment of the principle of reciprocity combined with intensification of the control of exports.—Reuter.

MAN KILLED IN FIGHT

Nasty Fracas Tea Shop

Due to a quarrel, a bitter fight among three shop foks took place in a Chinese tea shop of No. 23, Des Vaux Road West, early on Sunday morning, and as a result of the struggle, Cheung Pit Cheung, a shop fok, was killed.

It is alleged that about 1 a.m. on Sunday morning, deceased had made some cakes for the morning supply, and Wong Yam, another fok, tasted the cakes and said that they were no good. A quarrel then arose and a fight followed.

Wong Lam, cousin of the murderer, who witnessed the incident, took part in the fight, and as a result, the deceased suffered many fatal wounds in his body.

Seeing the serious condition of the matter, the other foks blew whistles for help, and on hearing the sounds, the two murderers fled.

The deceased was then immediately sent to the Government Civil Hospital, but he died soon after admission.

London, December 10. Events are moving rapidly in the Free State where the Dublin Police have seized the United Ireland Headquarters, Morrison Square, following last night's proclamation banning "Blue Shirts."

The party's printers are forbidden to print party literature on pain of prosecution. The police have also closed the Young Ireland Association's Dublin premises, while Commandant Cronin, the National Secretary of Young Irish Men has been detained at Bunderan, Co. Donegal, pending instructions from Dublin. It is understood this followed the wearing of a blue shirt at a meeting last evening.—Reuter.

O'DUFFY'S PARTY PROSCRIBED

Dublin, December 8. Stronger measures toward curbing the activities of the opposition have been taken by Mr. de Valera in a proclamation declaring the Young Ireland Association to be unlawful under the Public Safety Act.

It was recently alleged that raids on the residence of General O'Duffy and other premises disclosed that the Young Ireland Association had been formed for "revolutionary" purposes.

Members of the organisation may now be arrested upon the slightest provocation, leading to their trial by Military Tribunal, with powers to inflict unrestricted penalties, including flogging or death on a wide range of political offences.

O'DUFFY'S PROTEST

General O'Duffy, on learning of the issue of the proclamation, expressed considerable surprise and said the organisation would proceed.

He described the proclamation as a monstrous illegal act of political persecution, without a shadow of moral justification.—Reuter.

MR. THOMAS SOUNDS WARNING

London, December 8. In a speech at Retford, the Dominion Secretary, Mr. J. H. Thomas referred to Britain's relations with the Irish Free State, saying that long range speaking would not effect a settlement of this unfortunate dispute.

Mr. McIntee, speaking as a responsible Free State Minister, had recently said that the Irish people wanted friendly co-operation. "We too want friendly co-operation. If I were tempted to utter a warning, it would be such that the Irish Free State people would realise how this economic strife is, gradually accumulating trouble in this country to present conditions and how there is a very real danger of permanent markets being lost."

DANGER OF DISPUTE

"People become accustomed to changed circumstances and adapt themselves accordingly. I am not unmindful that that can be as truly said about the Irish Free State with regard to our trade. Surely these facts of themselves show the danger of prolonging this dispute."

"Trade and commerce, indeed trade unionism, yes and national honour all are involved in the principle of the sanctity of agreements. That is the simple issue and I beg Mr. de Valera to believe me when I say that the British Government have not and will not close the door to an honourable and lasting peace which recognises this fundamental principle."—British Wireless.

COMMANDANT CRONIN ARRESTED

Dublin, Dec. 10. Commandant Cronin, secretary of the Young Ireland Association, an off shoot of the United Ireland Party has been arrested at Bunderan, Co. Donegal, on a charge of wearing a blue shirt in defiance to proclamation. He will appear before a military tribunal.—Reuter.

'PLANE FACTORY FOR CHINA

Big Scheme Proposed by U.S. Company

Buffalo, New York, Dec. 10. It is announced that the Curtiss Wright Corporation is planning to build a five million dollar aeroplane factory in China. The Chinese Government has agreed to assist in financing the factory and the disposal of its output.

In the early stages parts and material will be shipped from the United States, but later only motors made at Patterson will be imported.—Reuter.

CIVIL FLYING IN BRITAIN

Prince of Wales on Present Needs

London, Dec. 8. The Prince of Wales urged a forward policy in regard to civil aviation at a conference in London called to stimulate the movement for equipping more English towns as airports.

The use of the aeroplane, said the Prince, who is an enthusiastic airman, should be of the disposal of all instead of only a few.

The development of regular air transport in the British Isles had made sudden and remarkable strides during the present year, but they must look ahead. Britain had a great aircraft industry and some of the best aircraft in the world but they must now think of an hour but of 250 miles an hour. Such speeds would not arrive suddenly. But when they came larger aeroplanes would be needed. Aeroplanes were evolved, not invented.

MORE LANDING GROUNDS

Immediate need, he said, was for more landing grounds so that aeroplanes could alight where they wished.

Sixteen local authorities in England, Scotland and Wales had provided modern aerodromes and six other local authorities had acquired airport sites. But they could not reap the full rewards for their enterprise because their lead had not been followed.

Fast, frequent and regular air services would only come about if aircraft, air routes and air ports were planned simultaneously.—British Wireless.

ECONOMIES IN AVIATION

Increasing Speeds

The progress made in aviation during the past few years is most spectacularly demonstrated by the increased speed, size, reliability, and general efficiency of present day aircraft. In all these ways there are amazing improvements upon the machines of a few years ago. Another direction in which progress has been made and to which attention has been drawn recently is in regard to the economies effected in upkeep and general operation. During the past ten years the cost of maintaining each first-line aeroplane in the Royal Air Force has been reduced by approximately one-half. In 1932 the number of men needed to keep each aeroplane in the air was 30; to-day only 43 men are required. Ten years ago each first-line machine cost approximately £44,000 a year, while the present figure is £22,000.

This tendency is not confined only to British aircraft, of course. Other nations are also getting much better value for their money, and in this connection a comparison of expenditure is interesting. Since 1925, Great Britain's annual expenditure on her Air Force has been reduced by eight per cent. During the same period France has increased her expenditure by 112 per cent; and the U.S. by 108 per cent. Britain's expenditure on her Air Force is only 2.2 per cent of her national income. In France the proportion is 4.3 per cent and in the U.S.A. it is 3 per cent. Thus, apart from economies due to reductions in the upkeep of machines, Great Britain has definitely contributed to world disarmament in the force which is militarily of greatest value to-day.

TRAGIC FIRE AT COUNTRY HOUSE

French Duke And Peer's Brother Dead

London, December 9. A French Duke and a Peer's brother are dead following a fire which practically destroyed a country house, "The Heronry," near Whitechurch, Hampshire, early this morning.

The victims were house-party guests of Mr. Leander James McCormick, a member of a Chicago millionaire family, and Mrs. McCormick, formerly the Comtesse de Fleureau.

The Duc de La Tremoille, who was found dead under the floor of a collapsed bathroom, was a prominent French cavalry officer. Captain the Honourable James Rodney, brother of Lord Rodney, died in hospital after a 29-foot leap with his wife from the window of their room. His wife was taken to hospital at Winchester in a critical condition.

The rapidity of the spread of the flames did not allow the guests or the household staff time to dress. An hour after the beginning of the fire the roof crashed in.—Reuter.

ANTI-AIRCRAFT PRECAUTIONS

Put In Force At Foochow

Foochow, December 9. Anti-aircraft precautions for the public order have been issued. At a cannon signal all vehicles are to stop and all people are to enter their houses. At night-time all lights are to be extinguished. H.M. Destroyer Vorty has arrived, replacing the Whitehall, both of the Eighth Destroyer Flotilla.—Reuter.

NO JAPANESE LOAN SOUGHT BY FUKIEN

Foochow, December 9. General Tsai Ting-kai declared to-day that if the 19th Route Army had sought a Japanese loan or other assistance he would drown himself and his army as an apology to China.

The people would easily determine, he said, who was really conspiring with Japan for the selling of China.—National Press.

SHORTAGE OF MONEY MAY CAUSE COLLAPSE

Foochow, December 9. Reuter reports that Mr. Eugene Chen, Foreign Secretary of the Fukien Government has announced that the Customs receipts of Fukien will be retained by the new Government.

The average monthly receipts at Foochow are $225,000.

The new regime is already feeling a financial pinch. The tax on oil and gasoline has been increased while a tax on imported rice is to be imposed at the same rate as in Canton.

Foreign observers believe that financial difficulties will be as powerful an influence as military action in the collapse of the separatists.

RED VICTORIES DENIED

Foochow, December 9. The reports stating that the cities of Yenping and Shashien have been occupied by Communist troops are absolutely groundless and purely notions of the Chinese press.—Reuter.

CHEN'S REPORT ON FUKIEN AFFAIRS

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Canton, Dec. 10. According to a Press report from Foochow, received here to-day, Mr. Eugene Chen, Minister for Foreign Affairs of the People's Revolutionary Government at Foochow, has authorised the publication of the following reply to a list of questions submitted to him by a foreign news agency who is reporting on the situation in Fukien.

Asked what is the agricultural policy of the Government, with special reference to ownership of land and agricultural credit, Mr. Chen said that he thinks that it is Trotsky, who says that the peasant is the "back-horse of civilisation." This is peculiarly true of the Chinese peasant. The peasant is, in reality, the representative figure in China as well as a creative figure," he said. "There are more than 300,000,000 peasant men, women and children in this country; this massive fact makes him the representative figure in China. He produces and creates food and raw materials of industry."

Referring to the attitude of the Government to private property, with special reference to Missionary Societies and property which has been developed by owner or tenant, Mr. Chen declared that the Government will not interfere with the institution of private property except in so far as such interference is imperative in carrying out its agrarian policy and the state ownership of public utilities and preventing, in a general way, the development of any tendency calculated to repeat in China the economic and social maladies which laissez-faire capitalism has created in the industrialised countries of the world.

FINANCIAL POLICY

Replying to the question of the financial policy of the Government, he stated that in Fukien as elsewhere in China, inefficient collection of public revenues has been one of the main factors in the past as Fukien has not been "self-supporting." The Government will take steps to make fiscal collection more efficient and honest. New sources of revenue will be opened up and the tax on duty on one or two imported articles, like kerosene, will be increased.

With regard to what terms the Government is willing to accept foreign capital for their development, Mr. Chen asserts that the Government has not yet worked out the terms on which foreign capital is to participate in the development of China's natural resources. But it may be stated generally that the investment of such capital is, of course, desired, provided it is not detrimental to national rights.

CHAMBERLAIN ON BRITISH TRADE

Will Not Stand Unfair Treatment

London, Dec. 9. Referring to Britain's trading relations with other countries, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. N. Chamberlain in speech at Birmingham, last night, stated it is not fully realised that we in Great Britain are no longer unable to defend ourselves if we are unfairly discriminated against where that unfair discrimination takes the form of subsidies, or quotas, or special taxes directed against our goods which are not imposed on the goods of other countries. In the past we have had to put up with the consequences of that sort of action because our hands were tied behind our backs. To-day they are not tied any longer, and it is time it was fully realised that we are not prepared to sit down and see our vital interests jeopardised by unfair discrimination of that kind. For instance, a great deal of attention has been directed lately to the practice of a large number of countries of subsidising their shipping in competition with ours. I am not for moment saying what action we might take but we are not going to let British ships sweep off the face of the ocean and in one way or another we mean to defend ourselves.—British Wireless.

GOVERNMENT ACTION PROMISED

London, Dec. 9. A pledge of Government action to save British shipping from the unfair discrimination of foreign countries was given by Mr. Neville Chamberlain, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, speaking to-day at Birmingham. Mr. Chamberlain said he was not going to see British shipping swept off the face of the ocean "One way or another, we must defend ourselves."

Mr. Chamberlain, however, did not reveal what form the defence would take.—Reuter.

LONDON STOCK MARKET

Government Stocks Irregular

London, December 9. Sterling on New York 5.15 1/2 on Paris 83 1/2.

Gold decreased to 126/6d., with 84d premium.

Stock markets are quiet, Internationals steady but kaffirs are irregular.

German Bonds and French issues are uncertain.

British shipping securities remain firm, and Home Rails higher but Government stocks are slightly irregular.—British Wireless.

HADLEY APPEAL DISMISSED

Petition Sent To Sir Miles Lampson

Shanghai, Dec. 9. Mrs. Hadley's appeal has been dismissed.

Her only chance is a commutation of the sentence by Sir Miles Lampson, the British Minister to China, to whom a public petition has been submitted.—Reuter.

Mrs. Hadley, a British subject of Russian birth, was convicted on a murder charge following the death of Capt. Youngs, with whom she had been living. The man was stabbed in the throat following a drinking bout in her company.

EDUCATION

Asked what is the policy of the Government towards education, the San Min Chu I and Confucius, he pointed out that the educational policy of the Government is to enforce what is known as universal education and thus liquidate illiteracy and raise the intellectual level of the People, paying particular attention to civic education and vocational education or training.

"As regards the ethics of Confucius, there is much in them that must endure as part of our permanent cultural heritage. What is vital in them as well as in the San Min Chu I, will not be discarded, though it is doubtful that they can influence decisively the fundamental pattern of our life in the future," he added.

Before concluding his interview Mr. Chen strongly emphasised that the Government has not yet defined its attitude vis-a-vis the Chinese Soviet State.

POLITICAL CRISIS IN SPAIN

ANARCHISTS ANNOUNCE REVOLUTION

TROOPS CONFINED TO BARRACKS: POLICE TAKE PRECAUTIONS

Madrid, December 10. The majority of anarchist centres and headquarters of the National Labour Federation have closed down throughout Spain. Many arrests have been effected as a precautionary measure. The day passed off quietly at Barcelona, apart from isolated bombing and shooting in which two were killed. Shock-troops continue to patrol the restive districts. A general strike is believed to be imminent.—Reuter.

CONVICTS IN STATE OF REVOLT

Barcelona, December 9. The Spanish anarchists have issued a manifesto announcing a revolution to-day. The situation is most grave. Police patrols have been doubled and troops are confined to barracks.

The convicts in the prisons are in a state of revolt and orders are given by the warders at pistol point. Several bomb outrages are reported from the suburbs.—Reuter.

Following the issue of the Anarchist manifesto serious fighting has broken out in the village of Hospitalet, Catalonia, where a mob marching on Barcelona tried to burn a factory with inflammable liquid.

The Civic Guards fired on the mob, which fled towards Barceloneta. Bomb and shooting outrages throughout the city are reported including the bombing of a church in the Pueblo Nuevo district, where other bombs exploded, one blowing up a gasometer, with great damage.

It is reported from Madrid that at least three have been killed in a night-long street battle at Lotrono, where firing is continuing.

The Bilbao express has been derailed. Sabotage is suspected. It is believed that many people were killed and injured.

The Police, however, state that the situation is under control throughout the country.—Reuter.

MARY PICKFORD SEEKS DIVORCE

Suit Filed Against Fairbanks

Los Angeles, Dec. 9. The celebrated film star, Mary Pickford, has filed her suit for divorce from Douglas Fairbanks, charging him with mental cruelty, indifference and neglect.

Miss Pickford, in a formal statement, states that during the last few years she has become increasingly unhappy and is convinced that the future offers no solution.

"It is with the deepest regret that she is filing the suit, she declares. The property settlement will be effected out of court.—Reuter.

U.S. BANKING SYSTEM

How R.F.C. May Gain Entire Control

New York, Dec. 9. The proposal made by the National City Bank for the sale of $50,000,000 of its preferred stock to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in the opinion of experts might be the precursor of a socialised banking system by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

A circular letter to the National City Bank shareholders reveals for the first time the regulations to which banks entering President Roosevelt's plan to build up their capital structures with R.F.C. money, preparatory to credit expansion, must subscribe.

The most important regulation provides that, if two preferred dividends are in arrears, the preferred stockholders are empowered to vote with twice the voting strength of holders of the common stock for the removal of the bank's directors and officers, the election of successors and the fixation of salaries.

The effect of passing two preferred dividends is to give the Reconstruction Finance Corporation full direction and control of the business.—Reuter.

WALL STREET'S VIEW

New York, Dec. 10. With regard to the R.F.C. purchase of preferred shares of the National City Bank, while the Journal of Commerce hints the Government might use it as a wedge to create a socialised banking system, Wall Street brokers give the opinion that the scheme does not involve socialisation but is designed to improve the condition of banks concerned by providing cash.—Reuter.

REQUEST FOR DOLLAR STABILISATION

Washington, Dec. 9. The United States Association of Manufacturers, representing 500,000 manufacturers throughout the country to-day unanimously decided to ask President Roosevelt to stabilise the dollar on a gold basis.—Reuter.

High Scoring In Lai Wah Cup

CIVILIANS SHOW FINE FORM

The Lai Wah Cup between the Chinese and the Civilians on Saturday ended in favour of the Civilians by seven goals to five.

On the Railway ground, in the Lai Wah Cup, the Royal Navy defeated the Army by four goals to one.

South China defeated the R.A. at Caroline Hill in Division II of the League.

The Lincoln Regiment winning against the Recreio at King's Park maintain their position at the head of Division III table.

LAI WAH CUP

CHINESE v. CIVILIANS.

Playing in the semi-final of the Lai Wah Cup competition, the Civilians defeated the Chinese by seven goals to five. Fortunes varied throughout the game. The Chinese took the lead early in the game, and at the interval were leading by three goals to one. The Civilians rallied in the second half and putting on four goals, had a lead of five goals to three with less than ten minutes to go for time. The Chinese pressed and just on time made the scores five all.

In the extra time, the Civilians scored once in each half to qualify for the final by seven goals to five. There was a good attendance when the teams took the field. The Chinese forced a corner from the kick off. The flag kick was sent behind. The Civilians got away and Elliott missed a chance close in. From a long punt by Leung Wing-chui, Tam placed the ball in the net well out of McHardy's reach to open the score.

Bickford got through to send in a fast shot which was well fielded by the goalkeeper. Elliott sent in a high shot and Wong did well to tip up to the bar. Li Tin-sang standing unmarked twelve yards out received a pass from Fung, but his shot was wide. A scramble in the area ended with the Chinese being awarded a penalty kick and Tai placed into the net from the spot kick. Bickford sent across the goalmouth out of play. Elliott sent forward and Li mis-kicking let in Strange who had a clear run for goal and he shot into the net to make the score two to one in favour of the Chinese.

Tam Cautioned.

Strange sent Bickford in and a fast cross shot had Wong beaten. The ball rebounding to play was cleared. E. Strange again got through and when steadying himself to shoot from close range, he was charged off the ball. McHardy fielded a shot from Tai and while holding the ball was kicked by Tam. For this action Tam received a caution.

Fung pushed the ball through and Tam being unmarked went in and beat McHardy with a well placed shot.

Elliott missed a sitter and later sent in a header into Wong's hands. The Chinese forced a corner, but Tai sent the flag kick behind.

The Civilians came through again and E. Strange beat Wong to put them in the lead again.

Crossing over for the last portion the Civilians pressed and B. Gosano made the game safe when he cut in from the wing and sent in a fast low shot that Wong failed to see. The Chinese made a final rally and Au got through the defence and with only McHardy to beat, shot wide, the final whistle sounding with the score as above.

Civilians Improve.

The Civilians took some time to settle down and in the first twenty minutes could do nothing right. The middle line failed to cope with the raids on the Chinese forwards, while the forwards missed several good chances to score. The steady work of Strange and Pile at back, worried the Chinese but the two goals scored by Tam during this period found the Chinese player unmarked on the two occasions. McHardy having no chance to stop the shots. The second half showed a great improvement in the Civilians side. The wings of the Club and St. Joseph's played like clockwork and with the Chinese backs playing below their usual standard, they put on four goals in quick time. Elliott showed great improvement in this period and the goal scored by him to put the Civilians in front was a rattling good one. The middle line improved and several attempts to get through were broken up. Tam was the most dangerous forward in the Chinese team and his three goals were well deserved. Practically the whole of the extra time found Robertson master of the Chinese left wing.

Chinese:—Wong Wing; Li Tin Sang and Lau Mau; Leung Wing Chui, Wong Mee Shung and Lee Kwok Wai; Yeung Shui Yick, Au King Fong, Fung King Cheong, Tam Kong Pak and Tai Qual Hon. Civilians:—McHardy; C. Pile and S. Strange; Robertson; Beltrao and A. Duncan; B. Gosano, Ward, Elliott, E. Strange and Bickford.

R. Navy v. ARMY.

The match for the semi-final of the Lai Wah Cup Competition played on the Railway ground between the Navy and Army was witnessed by a large crowd, the Navy winning by four goals to one, the Army goal being a penalty one.

The Navy were a much better side on the run of the game and possibly had the advantage of playing their full league team, while the Army team was drawn from different units and failed to get together throughout the game. The difference in the score when the final whistle sounded was much to do with the difference in the middle lines of the respective teams. For the Army the half-back line showed weakness and failed to get a grip on the Navy attack, while the Navy forwards had no searching after the ball, it being well placed by the middle line ably led by McGuire.

LONGMEAD'S FROM

The Navy were well served by their right wing, Smith and Hudspeth opening out the attack and placing Langmead well forward with passes at the right time. Langmead was in good shooting form and netted three of the Navy goals.

The play opened with the Army attacking, but Higgins headed wide. Taking advantage of a defender failing to clear, Hocquard went in but he shot wide when hard pressed. The Navy soon got into their stride and the Army defence was hard pressed. The Navy soon got into their stride and the Army defence was hard pressed. Smith and Barnett failed from close range. Langmead opened the score for the Navy shooting in from a pass by Hudspeth.

The Army pressed from the centre kick and forced a corner which was fruitless. Hocquard dropped in the goalmouth and Liddington sent the ball behind for another fruitless corner.

Liddington did well to stop a shot from Matthews. Langmead put the Navy two up with a role effort running in to beat Combey with a fast shot which Combey failed to hold.

The Navy continued to press and Hudspeth put into the goalmouth. Langmead heading into the net, at the second attempt, the Navy centre-forward completing his hat-trick, giving the Navy a three clear goals lead at the interval.

Higgins Injured

The Army had the misfortune to lose Higgins through injury early in the second half and he was absent for a few minutes. Langmead got through the defence again, but his shot was well cleared by Combey. The Army forwards were just getting together before the final whistle sounded. During one of their raids on the Navy goal, a defender handled inside the penalty area and Cork converted from the spot kick.

Before the final whistle sounded, Barnett received and with a fine solo effort went through to beat Combey and register the Navy's fourth goal. Skinner was neglected throughout the match, all the play being put out to the Navy right wing.

R. Navy:—Liddington, James Heath, Perkins, McGuire, Langmead, Hudspeth, Smith, Lang-

DIVISION II.

SOUTH CHINA v. R.A.

Playing at Caroline Hill, South China defeated the R.A. by two clear goals. Attacking from the kick off, South China forced a corner and from the resulting flag kick took the lead through Ip. The Gunners then got away, but failed in front of goal, the Chinese defence being very sound. After a ding doing struggle in midfield, the Chinese got away, Kam having hard luck with a header. Good work by Woods in the Gunners goal kept the Chinese score down, the team crossing over with South China leading by the only goal scored.

The Gunners took the field without Gibbons in the second half, this player having injured himself during the first half. South China had all the play during this half but Woods was beating once only, Ip again, scoring.

DIVISION III.

S.W. BORDERERS v. R.A.F.

Playing at King's Park the Borderers defeated the R.A.F. by the odd goal in three. The game was evenly contested, the Borderers winning by taking advantage in front of goal.

Morgan opened the score for the Borderers sending in from a pass by Johns. From a free kick for the Airmen, Emerson sent in a hard drive, the ball striking the Grosbar rebounded to the foot of Tait who shot into the net to level up the scores.

A penalty awarded to the Airmen was missed by Tait, Watts clearing in style. Nelson got through again and put the Borderers in the lead. The Airmen had hard luck in the closing minutes and should have shared the points.

R.E. v. SOUTH CHINA

Playing on the Happy Valley ground, South China defeated the Sappers by three goals to one. Budding opened the scoring for the Sappers and before the interval, Tai Wal Hung scored for South China. The second half favoured the South China players and goals by Hai Hui Kwong and Tong Man Hing gave them the points.

R.A.S.C. v. RADIO

Playing on the Military ground, the R.A.S.C. and Radio played a drawn game, the score being one all.

The Radio fielded only ten players and were lucky to share the points, the R.A.S.C. having most of the game.

The R.A.S.C. were awarded a penalty kick, but failed to score. Hay scored for the R.A.S.C. and Henb scored for the Radio.

LINCOLNS v. RECREIO

Playing at King's Park, the Lincolns defeated the Recreio, by seven goals to two. Clarke opened the scoring for the Lincolns and soon put on the second goal. A penalty to the Recreio was converted by Santos. Clarke netted but was ruled offside, but shot another goal before the interval.

Campos scored for the Recreio early in the second half.

Clarke again scored for the Lincolns and Harper scored the Lincolns fifth goal. Dudley scored for the Lincolns and Clarke scored his fifth goal and the seventh for his side.

YESTERDAY'S FOOTBALL

Sunday Games At

Caroline Hill

The matches arranged for the widow and family of the late Q.M.S. Chappell, R.A.P.C. by the Officers and Members of the R.A.P.C. were well attended at the Caroline Hill. The basis of the Lincoln Regt. by kind permission of Lt. Col. Boyd, M.C. and Officers, played selections before the kick off and during the interval.

The local staff of the R.A.P.C. turned out, among the Officers of the Corps present being Col. Bildarbeck, Major Gedge and Capt. Elliott Heywood.

Chinese v. Borderers

The junior game was played between the South Wales Borderers and players selected from the junior footballers of South China and Chinese Athletics. The game ended in favour of the Borderers, Morris scoring just before the final whistle sounded.

Services v. South China

Both teams made changes from the advertised teams. South China turned out Wong Wing in goal, Leung In Chan partnered Li Tin Sang at back, Leung Wing Chui took the pivotal position, bringing in Tong Kwan at right half back. McClurg took the place of McGuire at left half back.

Several of the players were feeling the effects of the hard games played in the Lai Wah Cup matches on Saturday. South China had the advantage of the kick and took the opening half and took the lead through Wang King Cheong who shot into the net from a centre by Tai Qual Lun. The Services could make little headway against the defence, although Higgins was hard worker as leader of the Services. Liddington had plenty to do during this half, although some of his clearances were lucky ones, the wind making the ball curl when shot in.

With the wind in their favour, the Services had most of the play and South China defence was hard pressed. Baldry was weak with his shots being given plenty of chances through passes from Smith and Cork, but invariably his shots went behind. South China increased their lead when they caught the Services defence well up the field, Yeung Shui Yick racing in to beat Lee Kwok Chui was forced to leave the field through injury. Higgins held up the play through a bad charge inside the penalty area, the Services centre-forward falling flat on his stomach after receiving the charge. Services were awarded a penalty kick and Cork beat Wong Wing from the spot.

There was no further scoring, South China winning by two goals to one. South China:—Wong Wing; Leung In Chan, Lee Tin Sang; Tong Kwan, Leung Wing Chui, Lee Kwok Wai; Yeung Shui Yick, Ip Chien Lam, Fung King Cheong, Tam Kong Pak and Tai Qual Lun.

Services:—Liddington; Mullane, Morrison; Perkins, Cork, McClurg; Baldry, Smith, Higgins, Ridley and Hocquard.

HONG KONG LEAGUE

DIVISION I.

R.A. 3, Chinese Athletic 0

Playing on the Railway ground, the Gunners showed a little of last year's form when they beat Athletic by these clear goals.

Pardoe was the outstanding player and opened out the game to keep his forwards on the move. They overran the Athletic defence and were well worth the winners of their first points this season. Snooks opened the score heading in from a centre by Seal.

With a combined movement by the R.A. front line, Snooks placed the ball in the centre and Birmingham receiving when through to place the ball well out of Li Kwok Ki's reach. The Athletic tried hard get together and Ho Ka Kwong had hard luck when Allan tackled and cleared.

Crossing over two goals in the lead, the Gunners continued to have the better of the exchanges. The Athletic tried to open up the game but the Gunners defence was very sound. From a pass by Au, Kim Fung, Tang Kwong Sum went in, but his shot cleared the bar.

Pardoe pushed the ball through and Knight went in to score the Gunners third goal.

R.A.—Combey, Allan, Wroe; Rodgers, Pardoe, Worthington; Snooks, Barraclough, Birmingham, Knight and Seal.

Athletic.—Li Kwok Ki; Wong Tik Ping, Tang Kwong Wing; Lo Han Cheong, Ho Choi Yin Ip, Pang Fai; Tang Kwong Sum, Koo Hung Cheong, Ho Ka Kwong, Au Kim Fung and Fung King Ya.

Mrs. James Wins Singles

Experience and stamina were the chief factors which enabled Mrs. James to defeat Miss R. Hancock in the Singles Tennis Championship tournament, the finals of which were played at the U.S.R.C. on Saturday.

Miss Hancock displayed her best form in the opening set when after a ding-dong struggle her placements and strong left forehand drives often left her opponent standing.

In the second set Miss Hancock established an early lead of two games, but Mrs. James fought back grimly to take the third and fourth games to draw level, but once again Miss Hancock took the upper hand and drew away from her opponent to take the next three games.

With the score at 5-2 and love 15 in her favour, Miss Hancock became erratic, and Mrs. James took the game and the next four games for set.

Miss Hancock took the first three games in the final set, but Mrs. James produced her best form at this stage to draw level.

The seventh game provided a thrilling struggle, Miss Hancock taking the lead with a smash, but once again experience came to the fore and Mrs. James annexed the next two games to take the lead at 5-4.

Miss Hancock gamely hung on and took the tenth game to draw level once again. Mrs. James, however, overcame her opponent in the next two games for set and match.

C.B.A. Draw With Cumberland

One win and a draw was the net result of the two games played by the C.B.A. against the hockey team of H.M.S. Cumberland at Kings Park yesterday. In the first match the C.B.A. Ladies were defeated by the Torpedo Company by three goals to one. Miss M. Whitley scored for the Association and Edwards and Lamb for the Torpedo Company.

In the second game the C.B.A. Men's team after being down two goals at the end of the first half took the offensive and managed to gain a draw. Lt. Pares and Lt. Juniper gained the Naval team's goals while T. Whitley and Spigot scored for the C.B.A. Owing to their lack of a goalkeeper, Mrs. Webber, who plays for the C.B.A. Ladies played for the men's team and gave a very creditable performance. One incident marred the game. This occurred when F.W.H. Allen of the Association twisted his knee and had to be carried off the field.

The teams were:—
C.B.A.—Mrs. Webber, MacNider, Broughower, Allen, Halford, MacNider, Blyth, Spigot, Whitley, Lamb and King.

H.M.S. Cumberland—Triton; Lt. Lowe, Comdr. Dalton; Mids. Talbot, Lt. Comdr. Rust, Mordy; Lt. Richards, Hetherington, Lt. Pares, Lt. Juniper and Edwards.

Dundee Retains Middle-weight Title

Boston, Dec. 10.

Vinie Dundee, newly-crowned world middleweight boxing champion, retained his title against Andy Callahan, of Lawrence, Mass., last night, when he was awarded a points decision after 15 gruelling rounds.

Dundee, clever Italian boxer, won the title unexpectedly from Lou Brouillard less than a month ago. His brother, Joe Dundee, was formerly the welterweight champion.

Callahan, rushing the champion with hard rights and lefts to the body, led on points until the ninth round, but then tired subsequently when Dundee skillfully out-boxed the challenger, who was severely punished.

The last round witnessed a brilliant toe-to-toe duel, and at the conclusion the referee and one judge gave their verdict in favour of Dundee, but the second judge pronounced for Callahan.—Reuter.

SUSPICIOUS BEHAVIOUR

Loiterer Sent To Gaol

An unemployed Chinese named Lam Kam Ling appeared before Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy on Saturday morning, charged with loitering in To Kwa Wan Road, Hung Hom, in early hours of this morning for an unlawful purpose.

In prosecuting a Chinese constable said that the defendant was seen by him standing under the verandah of a private residence and peeping through a window of the house.

Perceiving his suspicious behaviour the constable walked toward him, and on seeing the officer, the defendant began to walk away but finally he was arrested.

It was also stated that the defendant had seven keys hidden in his hat. Sentence of one month's hard labour was passed.

LOCAL BOXING

Big Fight Ends In A Disappointment

The first boxing tournament of the season also provided the first disappointment for the hundreds of fight fans who went to the Lee Theatre on Saturday in the hope of seeing a first class encounter between Ewin and Fraggott who were billed to go fifteen rounds in the main event for the middleweight championship of the Colony. In the third round, after being scored by Ewin, his opponent hit the canvas with a dull thud, got up in a dazed condition, and as he was evidently unable to defend himself, the referee, H. G. Sheldon awarded the fight to Ewin.

Another disappointment was the Judge-Foley affair which ended in a win for the latter on points. Judge appeared to be out of condition and did not produce anything like the form he showed last winter when he earned for himself the reputation of a clever fighter.

THE MAIN EVENT

The Ewin-Fraggott fight opened slowly, both men being cautious. Fraggott was planning for an off-hand, his opponent being bigger. In one of the exchanges he slipped after a blow from Ewin and fell, and the round ended with honours even.

The second was Fraggott's round. He rushed Ewin to ropes in middle of the round and got in several good ones to the body. Ewin was warned for holding in clinches.

In the third, and what turned out to be the last round, Ewin side stepped a rush from Fraggott and got in a right to the head which might have damaged Fraggott even if he had not hit his head on the canvas stretching frame on the edge of the ring in falling. After he had been knocked down twice more the fight was awarded to Ewin on a technical K.O.

HOLTMAN v WILLOUGHBY

This was a very level fight until the fourth round when Willoughby got in a straight left. After that Willoughby had the better of the fight. During the 2nd and 3rd rounds Holzman was much superior landing several good straight lefts to the face. It was a match where the loser would have been more badly punished had he not had youth on his side. The older mans experience helped him tremendously. Willoughby won on points.

STOKER KING v JOHNSON

King won on points after the full six rounds. He was much superior in his defence and did not tire himself out. Johnson tried a series of rushes which had little effect as he did not use a straight left at all. He practically jumped at his opponent at times.

PRYALL v REID

A very nice fight, with both men finishing well. Pryall was warned in 3rd round for hitting with the open glove, but he was definitely superior to Reid, who was severely punished, although he did not show it. Reid's footwork was excellent and he kept Pryall guessing by the way he occasionally eluded him.

BARRY v PALMER

Barry was obviously the superior boxer. Palmer took a terrible amount of punishment during the eight rounds including a heavy attack to the body and head in the fifth round which he managed to weather remarkably. Barry won easily on points.

ANOTHER DISAPPOINTMENT

The return heavyweight bout between A.B. Foley and A.B. Judge proved disappointing. Judge concentrated on fighting at which he was clearly superior and it was this that saved him from being knocked out where he was out-fought in the open where he took heavy punishment. Foley beat Judge for the Colony heavyweight title at the Lee Theatre earlier in the year. He was formerly one of Primo Carners' sparring partners. Judge is the present China Fleet light heavyweight champion.

Gold Key Beaten In Exciting Finish At Macao

MISS BERYN FAIR WINS LADIES RACE ON ESK

(BY "MORNING DEW")

Favourites had a good day at Macao where there was a fairly good attendance at the last extra race meeting of the season.

There were many racing enthusiasts at the course, including Messrs. G. H. Potts, W. G. Pirie, H. B. L. Dowbiggin, P. M. Hodgson, H. H. H. Priestley, A. E. S. Alves, and A. H. Carroll.

Mr. A. J. P. Heard and Mr. Leo Frost were among the jockeys and won a couple of races each. Mr. P. P. Botelho won the novices' event while the ladies race which drew nine starters fell to Miss Beryn Fair who won a clever race on Esk.

PURE MUSIC WINS EASILY

Pure Music proved too good for the opening event and Mr. P. P. Botelho had no difficulty in winning with this pony. So On (Mr. Carroll up) led most of the way, but tired rapidly in the straight to finish third behind Pure Music.

FROST WINS.
In the second race Mr. Carroll riding The Loafer, again led the field, closely followed by City of Shanghai (Mr. Frost up). In the home straight, Baguio challenged the favourite but although he ran very gamely, could only finish second. The Loafer just finished in front of Good Sport for third place.

WAKEFIELD'S WIN.
Wakefield's victory in the third race was an exciting affair. The field of five were almost together entering the straight and Gold Key looked a winner at the distance post. However, Wakefield made a great effort over the last furlong and thanks to Mr. Frost's good riding got through to win by a length. Gold Key finished a short head in front of California, with Mon Talsman and Wonderful Stag close up.

HEARD'S INNINGS.
Mr. Heard's innings began in the fourth race when he won the six furlongs from Flying Boy and Darien in a race in which Chai's pony led most of the way. Mr. Frost took out Paul Jones in this race, but was unplaced.

CEBU COMES IN.
Mr. Heard brought in another winner in the fifth race when he won with Cebu, accounting for Iron Gey by half a length. Adam, in spite of a good start, could only finish third. The time for this race ("D" Class) of 1:31.2 was distinctly on the fast side.

LADIES' RACE.
Esk ridden by Miss Beryn Fair was content to his second behind The Loafer (Miss Alabaster) most of the way round in the ladies' event. Esk passed the leader in the straight and stalled off a hot challenge from Gallant Fox (Miss Joan Dowbiggin). The Loafer finished third.

City of Shanghai finished fourth and Christmas Belle, fifth.

Asia Lands, Limited, has received the following report from their New York correspondents, E. A. Pierce & Co. Tape evidence strengthens belief in the ability of the market to break through resistance. The up-side is logically the next stopping place and industrials should be the area covered by July high levels. The accompanying strength of rails remains an important technical confirmation.

Wheat: The relative strength of stocks started a fairly persistent demand and outside interest broadened on the advance.

Cotton: A small amount of buying, partly from the Continent, together with limited offerings improved the market. Southern selling was Silver: The market opened quiet and irregular. Reports from Washington relative to the Government purchase of a moderate amount of silver spurred speculative demand. Dumping operations are reported to be forty per cent ahead of those of 1932.

Mr. George Creel indicated that the President has no intention of departing from "sound money", saying that there is no likelihood of inflation to the extent of unsecured currency.

THE MALARIAL
PARASITE DEADLondon, Nov. 15.
The death is announced at Tunbridge Wells (Kent), at the age of 71, of Lieutenant-colonel Charles George Nurse, the well-known entomologist, who formerly commanded the 33rd Punjabis (Indian Army).Colonel Nurse saw service in various parts of the world, and during the war acted as draft-conducting officer.He was an expert in the world of entomology, and in 1920 he presented his whole collection of Indian Hymenoptera, numbering over 10,000 specimens, to the British Museum (Natural History) Department, South Kensington.Colonel Nurse was famous for his discovery at Quetta of the mosquito Anopheles Nursei new to science, which the late Sir Ronald Ross found to be the malarial parasite.FLOATING OF SOVIET BOND ISSUE BY U.S.(By United Press).
New York, Nov. 28.—Unconfirmed reports today said that Wall Street bankers may float an issue of Soviet bonds.It was reported that bankers believe a substantial loan could be sold here if Moscow would offer some kind of hedge against the depreciation of the dollar.Such a loan would be expected to stimulate Russo-American trade.It was rumored that the Federal Reserve Bank would shortly enter into correspondent relations with the Soviet State Bank.

1933 AS SUNNIEST YEAR

56 More Hours Needed

London, Nov. 6.
There is every prospect of the remaining eight weeks of this year supplying enough sunshine to establish a new record.The sunniest year so far recorded was in 1899, when Kew had 1,785 hours of sunshine. Already this month Kew has registered 18.5 hours, compared with only 26.2 hours for the whole of last November. This makes a total of 1,710 hours so far this year, so only 56 hours more of sun are required to surpass the 1899 figures.Rome, December 8.—Shen Tsou Ton, Chang Hsueh-liang's secretary, who is accompanying the Young Marshal to China was received by Singor Mussolini to-day and raised to the rank of Commander of the Crown of Italy. Mr.
James Elder, Chang Hsueh-liang's
British adviser, and the Marshal's family, will remain in England—
